Adam Emmenecker

In 2008, former Drake University Bulldog walk-on emerged as the most unlikely sports story in college basketball. Earning a scholarship one day before the 2007-08 school year, Emmenecker became the catalyst in Drake's climb to a Missouri Valley Conference (MVC) championship and onward to the NCAA Tournament. Adam was named ESPN The Magazine Academic All-American Basketball Player of the Year, as well as, Larry Bird Player of the Year for the MVC. One year later, Emmenecker followed his dreams and began a professional career playing Basketball for the Deutsche Bank Skyliners in Frankfurt, Germany. Adam currently works for Principal Financial Group and serves as a television color analyst for college basketball.

Jason Bauer

Jason Bauer was a starter for the Iowa Hawkeyes when they advanced to the "Sweet 16" of the 1999 NCAA Tournament. A three-year letterman, Bauer also was a recipient of the Chris Street Award. Jason spent three years working with the Drake program under legendary coach Dr. Tom Davis and is currently the Associate VP for Student Affairs at Grand View University.

A MESSAGE FROM THE WAUKEE BOYS' BASKETBALL HEAD COACH, JUSTIN OHL

“The goal for the Waukee Youth Basketball League is to develop the skills of young boys by teaching them important life lessons through the game of basketball.

The league offers strong fundamental basketball instruction in a culture where participation and learning are encouraged. In addition, fun is required!

We look forward to seeing you this winter!”
